H

HATE (Hassreaktion, Wutregungen gegen der Analytiker)

Ferenczi uses the term ‘hate’ ambivalently. On the one hand, ‘hate’ articulates the death-drive and sets in motion primordial destructive and restitutive forces. It provokes, for example, the whole process of ‘displacement’ (Verschiebung). Alternatively, ‘hate’ is purely reactive and sometimes contains justifiable anger. This is particularly the case in analysis, where the patient can feel rage (Wut) at the analyst’s insensitivity.
